(DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.)

DATES TO JULY 16.

(Congressional).

WASHINGTON, July 14.—In the Senate the proceedings were unimportant.

The House passed the bill authorizing the building of fish railroads over Hennepin Canal, Rock Island, Dubuque, Lacrosse and Winona. It also passed the bill to extend the reports on the Rebellion to Colonel Scott, but without a quorum present, pending a motion to lay the whole subject.

A Congressional caucus was held this evening with an address by ex-Governor Morgan and Chas. Nordhoff, of New York, who did not say a word in favor of Reconstruction, but addressed themselves entirely to the new party movements.

Senator Sherman made the bitterest anti-Johnson speech of the evening. He said that the Republican party must stand firm and not hope for support from the President, who was certain to go against them. He could speak for Ohio, and say that executive patronage would be used successfully and to create a split among the Republican party. Reconciliation only add ornament so that leaders might return home and meet the issue before the people.

Senator Wilson, chairman of the committee appointed at the last session to take into consideration the final adjournment, says so in the Post.

The House session took hold of Reconstruction in favor of concurring. The question will be under

It was well it was adopted as physical impossibility to adjourn as early as the 23d.

Sherman of Ohio considered that it was best to adjourn on the 23d. Pomeroy said the Senate can do what it pleases, but it was best to act upon the bill regulating the representation to-day; that the Senate acted as old boys in a hot school and if he could not stop spitting out of pure fun, something of old Rome to be put a check on him in December.

Resignation of P. M. General Dunnison—Cabinet Ministers.

The Portland this afternoon nominated to the Senate Alex. W. Randall, now first Assistant, to be Postmaster General vice Dunnison resigned. All say the friends of Secretary Harlan and Attorney General Speed, claim they have both tendered letters of resignation yet the President has not as yet accepted them. No doubt however, but if there withdrawal by the middle of next week.

The Cabinet row is now inspired by a letter of Senator Doolittle to each Cabinet officer, categorically demanding to know whether the new party movement would be sustained by them.

Bank Frauds—Great Excitement.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Much excitement exists in financial circles caused by alleged frauds in connection with the North River Bank of Hoboken. It is said that spurious notes bearing stolen checks have been taken to the Bank, and deposited for which certificates of deposit bearing interest were received. With the certificates of deposit purchases have been made of real estate, mercantile stocks, in the city and various parts of the country. It is the sight that Wall street is flooded with this paper now. W. Hudnick supposed to be Vice President of the Bank, has been arrested and committed after an inquiry.

The New Party Movement in Ohio.

CINCINNATI, July 14.—The Democratic State Central Committee, after two days of secret session, have fully decided to join the new party movement, and the Enquirer of this morning contained a call for district conventions to elect delegates to the Philadelphia Convention four half Democratic and the other half to be Johnson republicans.

Foreign News.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The foreign news to July 6th is of the highest importance. The Prussians gained a decided victory in Bohemia, both of the entire grand armies being engaged.

Austria offers to cede to Venetia to Napoleon, and the latter proposes an armistice.

The general belief in peace has produced an effect to some which closed at 87½, for money, five twenties at 69½ asked, 1st higher.

The steamer Inerman from Southampton, has arrived. Consols closed July 5th at 89@87½ for the account. Cotton quiet and unchanged. Breadstuffs dull, lower, wheat still one shilling lower, corn still declining. The Paris Bourse July 3d, consolsed firm, Rentes 69f 85c, being 90c higher than yesterday.

The war news is important. The Prussians in Bohemia were making glorious progress, and had taken Gitschin by storm, and the junction of the Prussian army under the Crown Prince and that under Prince Charles had been completely effected.

The king of Prussia had arrived at Gitschin, and the headquarters of Prince Charles had been removed beyond Gitschin.

A Gitschin telegram of July 3d, states that 100,000 Austrians and Saxons had been made by the Prussians since June 30th, and 20,000 Austrians have been killed and wounded.

The Austrian army retired to a strong position between Josephstadt and Koeningratz.

The fighting in the last three days had extended over a greater line than on the 27th, and the Prussians, though suffering heavily, made no material gain.

The Austrian corps under General Gablenitz were completely broken up, and besides innumerable prisoners, 30 guns, 6 colors and 2 standards belonging to the corps of Gen Gablenitz, fell into the hands of the Prussian troops.

The London Times' city article of Thursday evening, July 5th, says the news of the rapid progress of the Prussian army has created no impression on change, as there is now a possibility of negotiations for peace.

The Times of July 9th says horrible as the carnage has been, it must be looked upon as a mere prelude to a pitched battle now unavoidable, in which a quarter of a million of men will probably be engaged on either side.

FINE ENGLISH.—The Nation quotes some sentences from Mr. Deming's speech on Grant, in the House of Representatives, as choice specimens of "elegant oratory," as indeed they are. For instance, Mr. Deming described the Capitol as "this massive structure, with its solid foundations, expanded wings towering columns, and bubbling dome, which perhaps may all be engulfed in Lethe's dark waters." And here is another fine passage "Far, far back, at the very dawn of history, indeed upon the very first page of man's tempestuous annals, writ in faded hyeroglyphs upon crumbling columns"

But they have a writer in the Southern States who can beat Mr. Deming, and give him odds. Writing in the Crescent Monthly of Lee's surrender, he remarks "The supreme hour was now come, when, from across Fame's burning ecliptic, where it had traced, in flaming sheen, its luminous path of glory, the proud Aldebaran of Southern hope, in all the splendors of its caprons, Hyades brightness, should sink, to rest behind lurid war clouds, in the fateful western heaven, there to bring out, on death's dark canopy, the immortal rights of immortal deeds, and spirits great and glorious shining forever down upon a cause in darkness, like the glittering hosts upon a world in night."

But the West presents us with an example beside which the efforts of the East and of the South, both of Deming and the Crescent Monthly, become tame and flat. The Leavenworth Conservative, commenting a year or two ago, upon an election in Kansas, eloquently remarked "The fall of corruption has been dispelled, and the wheels of the State government will no longer be trammeled by sharks that have beset the public prosperity like locusts."

DISTINGUISHED DEPARTURE.—That gallant officer, Commodore John Rodgers, U. S. Navy, who arrived here with the U. S. war steamer Tuscarlet on the 22d of June, it appears is under orders to repair East,

SPECIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 18, 1866

The Oregon Mint

In the recent action of Congress, it would seem to be finally decided that Oregon is not to have the Branch Mint that has been asked for. It would so appear to be settled that no more Branch Mints are for the present to be established, and there so, that Idaho and Montana will fare no better in this regard than Oregon has done.

On the 14th of June the House Committee on Appropriations reported a bill to establish additional offices for the assay of gold and silver, and for other purposes. This bill provided for the establishment of assay offices at Portland Oregon and Boise City Idaho. Its provisions were such as virtually, if not in direct terms (we have not seen the whole bill) to repeal the late act establishing a Branch Mint at Dalles City. When the bill was brought up, Mr. Henderson offered the following amendment:

Strike out all in the body of the bill relating to the State of Oregon and add the following as an additional section to the bill:

And be it further enacted, That section one of an act entitled "An act to establish a Branch Mint of the United States at Dalles City in the State of Oregon," approved July 26th, 1866, and the same is hereby so amended as to locate and establish said Branch Mint at the city of Portland, in the State of Oregon, instead of at Dalles City, and that the appropriation for the erection of the necessary buildings, fixtures, &c., for said Branch Mint be and the same is hereby continued and shall be applicable to the purposes and provisions of this act.

This amendment occasioned considerable debate. It was opposed by several members on the general ground that it was inexpedient and unnecessary to provide any more places for the coinage of the precious metals—that the parent mint and the Branches already established, afforded every needed facility for this purpose—that the cost of erecting and maintaining a mint in Oregon would far exceed the general advantage that could be derived from its operations, and that as money always seeks commercial centers, the greater portion of our gold and silver would pass by the Oregon mint to San Francisco, just as the precious metals of Colorado pass the mint at Denver and go to New York and Philadelphia for assay and coinage. To build a suitable mint in Oregon would cost from $150,000 to $200,000, and require besides, a large annual outlay to sustain it when established. By these and similar arguments Mr Henderson's amendment was opposed, and when the question was finally taken, it was defeated by a vote of 41 yeas to 71 nays.

The amendment having been rejected, the bill as originally reported, came to a vote and was finally passed. In the action of the House it is expected that the Senate will concur.

The act to establish assay offices at Portland and Boise City contains some provisions which will promote the general interests of commerce and redound to the benefit of the people of this State and the neighboring Territories. Of course we preferred a Mint; but as it was not granted us, and as the question may now be regarded as definitely settled against our petition, we may as well be satisfied with what has been given us. The superintendents of the assay offices have authority to issue certificates for the net value of bullion they receive, and these certificates are made payable either at the Branch Mint in San Francisco or the principal Mint at Philadelphia. The risk of transporting bullion from the assay offices to the Mints for coinage, will thus be taken by the Government. If the law is not just what we would have, it seems likely to be all we will get for the present, and we may as well make the most of it.

The Legislative Appropriation bill which has passed the Senate, gives the President among other Secretaries, a Clerk of Pardons, with a salary of $3000 per annum. Considering the onerous duties of his position, this salary is but a miserable pittance. The Clerk of Pardons will be the hardest worked and poorest paid officer in the President's service.

A bill creating the office of full Admiral in the United States Navy, passed the Senate on the 14th of June.

"The Union is not now the Union our fathers made."—Examiner.

No? Well, thank Heaven, it is not what Copperheads and rebels would make it.

Senator Sumner's mother died in Boston on the 15th day of June, at the age of 81 years.

STATE ITEMS.

A Lodge of Good Templars, called the Highland Lodge, was instituted at Gale's in Polk county, a few days since, with twenty-eight members.

We are informed that the P. T. Co. has offered to carry teachers, attending the Annual Meeting of the Teacher's Association the 31st inst., at half the usual fare.

The Democracy of Polk county have advertised a mass meeting of "the faithful," to be held at Dallas on the 21st. They promise a "grand time," which means, probably, a big drunk.

The Reporter warmly advocates the organization of a county fair in Jackson county. It is of opinion that a most creditable fair can be gotten up, and promises to do all in its power to further the measure.

A correspondent at Baker City says a new road has been surveyed and will be opened immediately, between Baker City and LaGrande, by way of Ringsville, which will shorten the distance for travel between those points about five miles.

Among the many scientific gentlemen who are to be present at the State Educational Association to be held at Oregon City on the 31st inst. are Prof Wood, Revs. Wythe, Atkinson, Benson, Marsh, Scott and Spencer, and Drs Wilson and Watkins.

The miners at Clarksville are making from $3 to $20 per day to the man. There is a considerable scope of country around it that has never yet been prospected, and it is thought that as good diggings as those now worked can be found not far distant.

A fire occurred at La Grande on the 9th, destroying the "Valley House" with its contents. An adjoining house belonging to Daniel Chaplin and occupied by Mr M Baker as a law office, was demolished to prevent the spread of the flames.

Mr McAfee returned this week from an extensive exploration in the North Santiam. He reports the appearance of all the ledges as being very flattering. Mr. Foley and another man had recently discovered a valuable gold ledge. So says the Statesman.

Mormon Bush, though a rich mining camp, is now destitute of water. Glover & Co took out, a short time since, a nugget of pure gold which weighed $650. Some new diggings which have prospected as high as $4 to the pan, have been discovered about four miles from the Bush.

We learn that Gen. Steele was at Baker City on the 7th inst. A committee of citizens called on him to ask for protection from the Indians. Gen. Steele answered that he would telegraph to Washington for authority to enlist a regiment of men in this State, and had no doubt but the request would be granted.

An affray occurred at Albany recently, between Edward Morvill and an Italian, name not learned, which resulted in the death of the latter. The affray grew out of a dispute about a water right. Morvill attempting to turn water on to his own claim was shot at by the Italian, when the former went to his cabin, got his gun, and returning, shot the Italian dead. Upon examination, he was discharged.

The city authorities of Salem says the Review, have at last come to the conclusion that it would be a judicious idea to prepare themselves against the ravages of fire in the future, and are now engaged in the construction of large cisterns, at the crossings of each end of the streets. They are to be supplied with water from the mill race by means of a hydraulic ram. The pipe for the cistern near the Capital Hotel, is already in its place, ready for operation as soon as the cistern is completed. They are also doing a good part by the streets—grading and improving them considerably.

The Lightning Quartz Lead, says the Jacksonville Sentinel, although as far as prospected, is rich, it does not appear to be as fabulous as represented. The quartz is a kind of porous scoria, with the gold through and around it. The gold is light and porous, and of a dark, dirty color. It is not known certainly the amount which has been taken out, but it is supposed to be from five to ten thousand dollars. We understand that it is the intention of the owners to build an arrastra for the working of the lead.

At the regular meeting of the Jacksonville Lodge, No 10 I O O F, held at their Hall, on Saturday, July 7th, the following officers were installed into their respective chairs: H Holmes N G, H Duncan, V G, Geo P Fuller, R S, S J Day P S, M A Rasband, Treas., W Hitchcock, W, Jos Hetter, I G, Jas M Sutton, Con., J Mc Laughlin R S to N G, A Jacobs, L S to V G, J Titus, R S to Con, T D Redpath, L S to P, P Foubler R S S F, Thelker, L S P, S J Day, Wm Royal and Geo P Funk, Trustees.

The editor of the Oregon Reporter has seen a specimen of rye, raised on the farm of Mr Smith on Wolf Creek, the stalks of which, twenty-one on a single root, are nine fe-tteen inches long, and the heads over six inches long. The Reporter adds: The grain crops this year throughout Rogue River Valley will be unusually large—so large, indeed, that one farmer informed us a week ago that unless a man kept logs, the more grain he had sown this season the poorer off he would be." We cannot vouch, however for the truth of such logic. Certain it is, that flour ought to be very cheap for the next year, and it will be, without doubt.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO JULY 16.

Foreign News.

PARTRIDGE POINT, July 15—The steamer Nora Anston brings dates one month later, to July 15th.

A great battle took place on the 3d, near Landau, resulting in the Prussians obtaining a great and complete victory. The battle lasted 12 hours. The Austrians being commanded by Gen Benedek, and the Prussians by the King in person. 11 Princes and the Austrians between Dresden and Munich and effected a retreat, but after that have not been seen with the Prussians. At last accounts the Austrians were in full retreat. The Austrians were in such haste that they threw away their arms, knapsacks and ammunition. Their artillery and baggage were all captured by the Prussians. The Austrians were in such haste that they threw away their baggage which they threw away. The killed and wounded on both sides was great, but owing to the extent of the battle, the exact number of killed is not attained. The Prussians claim to have captured up to the evening of the 3d, 13,000 wounded and prisoners, 160 cannon and several flags.

Three Austrian Arch Dukes are reported wounded. Prince Frederick Charles and Prince Mecklenburg were also wounded.

The Austrian Field Marshal Von Ballmoden was killed at the Prussian headquarters at Reichenwitz on the evening of July 4th, with a flag of truce.

The Paris Bourse of the 5th makes the following announcement: An important event has just occurred. After having manifested the desire of a meeting in Italy, the Emperor of Austria, assenting, in Count Crenneville, to Emperor Napoleon's offer of Thurs 14th to the Minister of Foreign Affairs, called Venetia to bring a modification for the conclusion of peace. The Emperor hastened to respond to the summons and immediately communicated with the king of Prussia and Italy in order to obtain an armistice.

The London Times of the 6th says the public peace of the Continent hangs in the corresponding few days more to speculate upon the possible consequences of the defeat of the Austrian Empire.

The Daily News states that the Prussians not only gained the battle, but a strategetical advantage of the highest importance. They have completed rights of the Elbe, and can pounce down on the Austrian rear, overwhelming Saxe and have cut off communication between the Austrians and the Federal army in the west.

The Prussian victories begin to decided effect financial and commercial affairs. There was a general improvement in consols and other securities in London last Saturday. There was great buoyancy in the Bourse and the funds had a depression in the Stock Exchange. On the Paris Bourse, Rentes improved one and a half, and Italian securities four per cent.

Gen Benedek, on the 3d, attacked the Austrians at Montecinola. The Austrians made a strong resistance and the volunteers finally fell back in good order. Gen Garibaldi was slightly wounded in the thigh.

The Prussian and Italian reply to the proposed armistice has not yet transpired, but peace is regarded as virtually concluded.

Consols closed at 70⅝@70⅞ for money. Bullion in the bank of England declined 9 pounds, sales of action, 200,000 bales, closing firmer and advancing.

Veto of Freedmen's Bureau Bill

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The President has vetoed the Freedmen's Bureau bill, recapitulating his previous objections. Stating that the present bill as would, anyway, continue until after the next session. Mr Elliott moved to reinstate the original bill, notwithstanding the veto, and to override it. Mr Ashley moved to take it up now. The House then voted—ayes 84, noes 45. So the bill passed over the veto.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—A private telegraphic dispatch received in this city, announces the death on the 13th inst., at Newark, N. J., of paralysis, of E. Morris Ball, formerly of this city. The deceased was long connected with the mercantile and mining interests of California and Nevada. He leaves a brother in this city, John D. Earl and numerous old friends and acquaintances who will sincerely mourn his loss.

Among the passengers by the steamer for San Pedro to-day, is Col E. D. Baker, son of the lamented Senator of that name, who goes with his family to reside at Prescott, Arizona, having been appointed U. S. Quartermaster for that military District. He served with distinction throughout the war at the east, and though comparatively young in years, is a veteran soldier, having seen more of war than any man on the continent had seen five years ago.

The funeral of the Princess Victoria, of the Hawaiian Kingdom, was to take place at Honolulu on the 30th of June.

Monetary—The Markets.

The demand for exchange and bullion for Thursday's steamer, has not fairly commenced yet. Legal bankers quote coin drafts on the Atlantic States at 2½ currency, or 40c premium on gold. Telegraphic transfers at par. Sterling, 60 days bankers bills at 48½ prime, gold bars at 880 and 890, and silver do at 1 and 1½ per cent premium for average lots. Mexican dollars are nominal 84½ and 7c premium.

Coffee—An important sale was consummated yesterday afternoon, the largest holder of the city, buying all the Central American and Manilla in the hands of leading importers, say about 85,000 pounds, on terms not made public. This concentration has stiffened prices, and Costa Rica is now quoted at 24½c, Central America 25c and Manilla 25½c. No price has been fixed for the cargo of Rio, which remains intact.

Flour—The market continues dull. Superfine flour sells per 196 lbs. $4 75@5 00, qr sks, $5 00@5 25, extra, half sks, $5 25@5 50, qr sks, $5 50@5 75.

Barley—Sales include 1,400 sks good feed at 85c, brewing at 87½@90.

Potatoes—Dull. Missions are quoted at 75c@80c.

Beans—Sold at $3 75 per 100 lbs.

Onions—Are quoted at 75c per 100 lbs.

Hay—Sold at $13 00.

No later gold quotations than those given yesterday for Saturday, 102½@102¾. The market for legal tenders is weak at 70½@71 buying, and 71½ selling.

Mining Stocks.

Mining stocks do not rally much. The only leading ones which show an advance to-day are Savage, $31 50, and Overman, $12 00. Gould & Curry shows a decline of $50 00 from the last cash sale on the 13th. From the morning's Board yesterday Belcher shows a decline of $15 00, Ophir, Confidence and Gheiler-Potosi, each $5 00; Spring Valley sold at 65, and $5,000 legal tenders sold at 71½.

Arrived—July 16th, steamer Del Norte, from Eureka; Russian schooner, Hilton Badger, 17½ days from Honolulu. On the 17th, the U. S. steamer Saranac, 4 days from Puget Sound.

Sailed—July 17th, steamer Pacific, for San Pedro.

FROM WALLA WALLA.

We glean the following from the Walla Walla Statesman of the 12th inst.

HARVEST.

The harvest in the valley will be a little more backward than usual this year, on account of the wet weather that prevailed the fore part of the season. Some of the barley fields will be ready for cutting next week.

ODD FELLOWS' HALL.

We understand that the Odd Fellows of this city propose to erect a Hall for the use of the Order. Heretofore the Odd Fellows hold their meetings in the Masonic Hall, but the destruction of that building by fire renders it necessary that they should erect a Hall of their own.

CATTLE.

Mr. Wm. McKinney, passed through town this week with a band of 300 head of cattle—mostly milch cows and beef cattle. He brought them up from from Southern Oregon, and proposes to winter them at his place at the upper end of this valley, and drive them next spring to the Blackfoot market.

REBUILDING!

The burnt district is rabidly being built over. The fire took place on Wednesday afternoon, and Tuesday morning, bright and early, Messrs. Abbatt & Shull had the lumber on the ground, prepared to rebuild their wagon and blacksmith shop. The smoke had scarcely cleared away when Mr. Wm. Phillips, the heaviest sufferer by the fire, had a gang of men at work making the excavations for the erection of a fire proof warehouse on the lot adjoining the old Masonic Hall corner. Other buildings are springing up as if by magic, and soon nothing will remain to indicate the scene of the disastrous Fourth of July fire.

RETURNING MINERS.

We have seen and conversed with four or five men this week who have just returned from the Blackfoot mines. They belong to the disappointed class, and naturally enough their account of that country is not over flattering. They state that the country in every respect, is greatly overdone—that where there is one good claim there are a hundred others that will not pay "grub," and that not more than one in ten miners there, can find steady or profitable employment, that the rush claims we hear about in McClellan, Deep and other Gulches, are altogether the exception and not the rule, and that even in those very rich claims the miners sometimes work for days and do not secure more than wages. They instance cases where claims pay as high as nine hundred dollars for a single day, and then for weeks they do not pay the expenses of working them. They report further, that there is a large number of miners from this side on their way back to the old camps, and that the returning tide may be looked for here in a few days or weeks. Many of the packers and others, they say, who went from this side with goods are quite discouraged at a prospect of not realizing more than cost for the articles they have transported thither. As an offset to this, we have seen others who arrived from there this week, who tell the old story of the exceeding richness of that country. Among the fortunate ones from this place who have secured good claims there, are Messrs Smith and J W. Sonman and Neil Shunk.

The Radicals are fond of calling the President "A Johnson." He is The Johnson—the definite article.—Louisville Journal.

Very glad to know it—there is but one definite article—and one such is quite enough.

At his own request, made but a short time ago, the remains of General Scott were wrapped in a large American flag, made for the General in the spring of '61, by a young lady of Washington.

FROM MONTANA

The Idaho Northern Light contains the following Montana news items:

Mr Cyrus Jacobs, the senior of the firm of Jacobs & Co returned yesterday from an extensive tour through Montana. He reports Montana a great country large in extent, resources both farming and mining. Business generally good. Population, thirty thousand; a crowd still going there, and crowd all the time leaving. Provisions going down the Missouri river. The water is high, a large number of boats aground here and there. Every man who has forty or fifty of flour to grow provisions can get a passage to St. Louis. Many of the claims are paying well but enough so as to prevent the larger portion of men who go there from having easily it appears is usually the case. Few many of the dose boys there, some doing well and some otherwise.

A letter from the World, dated Reynolds City, contains the following:

I find a great many Nevada and Idaho men here. I am now writing in the office of Squire Walker. Hand Rhodes are ranching together. Walker I think has made up to this time about $10000, and has some prospect of making more because last many claims, but whether he has any money ahead or not, I do not know. They say his claim would be sold now for $10,000 and that one month ago he could have sold out for over $20,000.

As to the country let me say this, Elk creek is a partial failure. About thirty or forty claims on it will pay quite well, nothing big. There are quite a number of small gulches around here averaging about six or eight claims each, which are paying quite well. Some of them from $600 to $1 bill per week to a ranker. These will mostly be worked out this season. Deep gulch which bends about two miles from here and runs to Bear City is prospecting quite well and most of the claims where bed rock has been struck are paying very well. This will not be worked out before another season. Deep Gulch empties into Bear Gulch. Bear Gulch is almost an undeveloped, the mining is deep and hence claims are hard to open.

The World's Views. The comment of Vice Johnsonian journal, the New York World, upon the occasion of Mr Johnson's first appearance in the Senate subsequent to his celebrated illness on March 1, 1865, has been hunted up by some political antiquary, and is so peculiar that we transcribe it to our columns, as follows:

[From the World March 13, 1865.]

"CONDITION OF VICE PRESIDENT JOHNSON.—Our telegraph columns this morning contain an extract from Forney's Count Journal of yesterday, in reference to the appearance of Vice President Johnson at the Capitol on saturday, the phraseology of which calls for an interpretation, such as the following:

[From the C ict Journal.]

"His (the Vice President's health is entirely restored. He was as cheerful as any man could be after having received them such an indisposition.

[The Interpretation.]

"Mr Vice President Johnson owing to the kind solicitations of Mr. J. P. Hale, Senator from Maine, after having received him a glass of wine, appeared in the Senate yesterday. He was as cheerful as any man could be after having probably disgraced himself and his country in the manner that he did on the 4th inst."

Now the World is among the constant laudators of the same personage, and if he should really appear in public in a condition of drunkenness would deny it through thick and thin.—Chicago Republican.

SUPERB CARD PICTURES.—ELLSWORTH & CARDWELL, 89 First Street, have some of the finest specimens of ALBUM CARD PICTURES we have ever seen. We doubt if there is a Gallery on the coast that can show any equal to what we now exhibit in the past week. All of their pictures are the theme and admiration of the public at large. Go and see for yourself.

REPARATIVE, OR CATTLE POWDER, THE BEST.—From the scale of beef and pork, most intelligent men will admit one of the principle sources of consumption is scrofula and humanity, especially in cities. A great many cures have been published and circulated in regard to the Cattle powder which have recently destroyed such a vast number of cattle and hogs. The attention of our Government has been attracted to the subject and appointments have been made by Hon. Isaac Newton, Commissioner of Agriculture. A work of belonging to the Agricultural Rebuds, has been published about this herbal powder, and has been considered the best thing of the kind extant. From Lime and other sources, we learn many reliable facts. In cattle, the first symptom observed of disease is restlessness in the looks and expression of countenance. It will be observed quiveringe, a reduced flesh and a general condition of the hair. The disease is supposed to be in the blood of the lungs—when an incredible portion of the lungs—when an incredible portion of the lungs reaches the blood it commences to multiply itself. Sympathy and unprecedented in its peculiar nature, is work, commencing a period of from one to two days. In some animals it scarcely lasts up to the drug, in others it is carried operation. They grow very thin, appetite and mind broke. In others there is no cough, manifesting a something irregular and unnatural in their appearance and feeling. Thus an animal which would be beneficial and healthful, becomes sick and solitary, and to cause the cause with less expensiveness of medicine, it is necessary to frequently and longer, it happens to the sale of the hogs and the feed, or whatever should be done to all the animals. Bellas book, and with out any doubt, is necessary, where a farmer has the time to watch his cattle sufficiently enough to detect them in the regular habit, so as to be useful. The local work in time, in the early, during the stage of the disease. Lower meals, composition of, and lowest by an offensive disorders, for to break out on the skin, the sores are full of thick matter, or in the lungs are stopped up, and the animals die. Another remedy has been found to control it. Dr. Dupas of Lyons, France, a letter lately received from the U. S. Consul, East man, Bristol, England, the following remedy is used in Lord Leigh:

"Equal portions of onion, shelled and garlic. Pound them, and pound them together, so that the juices be incorporated in a coarse pulp. Add to the whole one-fourth the weight of ginger. Take one ounce of the mixture for each of the weight of the ginger's pour sufficient water over it to cover it, and allow it to boil, stirring. Half the time, so that little or no sediment runs off from the liquid, which should be seven times the pulp, and not be thoroughly. Boil some flesh in water until it is thoroughly cooked, and add one quarter to the mixture, so that the liquor may not be more than half times in excess of the latter, mix thoroughly, and allow the whole to cool.

"Dose, for a full grown animal, a good pint for a heifer, a good half pint, for a calf, to her bottom a half a pint. Medicine to be given the moment the animal's breath is tainted, and should be repeated in 24 hours in bad cases. Should the animal's tongue be cut, the head of tar twelve hours, and the stomach swollen, administer as for a full-grown animal half a pound of fresh an allied lard, made into balloon. If the mouth should be sore, wash it with a pulp made of Seville oranges, peel boiled.

"Diet.—Two hours after medicine the animal to be fed with two or three pecks of the grains, and during the day nothing else than raw grass and a little sweet hay.

Vaccination and inoculation are now believed to be the best preventives of the cattle plague. The Russians inoculated the poison into beefy animals but inoculated them first. From these they took the poison and inoculated a second set, and so on to the fourth lot. The malignity of the poison becomes less and less, so that at length animals thus inoculated could mingle with unpolluted with diseased cattle. At the veterinary establishment of Chalfont the committee inoculated ninety-eight meetings. Four animals with those of the third generation and only sixty sank under the effects of this preventive operation. Simultaneous with cattle plague has appeared two fatal diseases to hogs, viz. bronchitis and cholera Teichinis, from the Greek word throx, meaning hair, is produced by a small worm, the eggs of which, when taken into the stomach, hatched, and these worm finds its way to the muscles of the body, did not die. These multiply with such extraordinary rapidity that in a few days they become millions. They are imbedded in the muscles, lying in a cell, invisible to the naked eye, and in their numbers destroying life. The following extract from a letter from U. S. Consul Rarch at Altona, Germany, will give some idea of the effects of eating trichinosed pork upon the human system. "The cases of people who have not made the appearance in Hadersleben, but numerous and most dreadful disease has appeared in some, called trichina. To give you some idea of the nature of this singular disease, it is said to be by the medical people a worm of infinite smallness, ingenerated in the flesh and whoever eats of it in an uncooked state, as the Germans very commonly do, are seized of pains in the body and stomach, and die in a few days, suffering intense agony. This malady made its appearance at Hadersleben in a village in North Schleswig. Some two hundred persons were taken suddenly sick in the village after eating hogen bought at a small store. In a few days eighty of them died in great agony, as if from cramps in the stomach and bowels. They had symptoms of disease caused by worms in the same proportion in the stomach and flesh as they had eaten. When introduced in the muscles they are thought to be harmless and the danger arises chiefly when taken into the stomach, and eating their way out causes inflammation. The most effectual remedy for this disease is said to be copperas water, with salt and given to the hogs. If trichina exists in pork it is only necessary to cook it it thoroughly, at a temperature of 160 degrees, Fahrenheit, to destroy them. Strict attention to the feeding of hogs, and their confinement in pens where they cannot get animal food is a sure preventive. Proper salting and smoking the meat for at least ten days destroys trichinæ—scalding meat in boiling water is not sure, in this animal, is similar in its effects to that upon the human system. The following is believed to be a sure cure: ten grains of calomel, ten grains of cayenne and ten drops of turpentine. Give it in skim, or if he does not eat it, drench him. An a good deal of the meat of the country is bought, sold and eaten, by dealers and families of cities and larger towns this article has been prepared for the benefit alike of the producer and consumer.

CONDITION OF THE STEAMBOAT BOILERS.—Wm. Burnett, Esq., U. S. Supervising Inspector of Steamboats, of all the waters on the Pacific coast and west of the Rocky mountains, has just returned from an official tour on the Columbia and Willamette rivers. He informs us that the class of boilers now in use on both rivers are of the safest kind; that there is really no more danger than from a kitchen tea-kettle; that facts show that the tubular boilers are heated to generate the propelling force, here, cannot be made. The application of heat to the outside of the tubular boiler in use on the muddy waters of the Mississippi river, is dangerous, and while Mr. B. was there as Special Inspector of the Treasury Department last winter he condemned all of them in use, making a sum total of nearly fifteen hundred boilers. It is gratifying to us to be able to get the endorsement of Inspector Burnett, showing as it does that our steamboat companies for the lives entrusted to them, and as a decided compliment to their judgment in overcoming the difficulties incident to inland navigation in Oregon.

ONE PINT HALL.—The Panorama and Bell Ringers are still the attraction at this Hall. The public seem never to tire of seeing this work of art or hearing the instructive and amusing description of each scene by Mr. Warwick. With what feelings of delight we look upon the ancient towers scattered throughout the island, which for centuries have puzzled antiquarians and travelers in Ireland. Look at the castles which for hundreds of years have passed into the hands of different Irish chieftains, English and Scottish armies, and have been the scenes of some of the most bloody conflicts on record. The ruins, too, of the old Abbeys, churches and halls of learning impress the beholder with awe. Nature has been generous in her distributions and exhibits here some of the greatest curiosities on the globe. Interspersed with all are the performances upon the Bells which sweetly tinkle their notes upon the night breeze. Miss Clara gives us a variety of comic personations every evening. These, with music upon the harp by Madame Diadelfi, ought to satisfy the most fastidious. They exhibit to-night as usual.

EARLY GOLFER.—The local editor of a daily paper is the most gullible of individuals. Statements are made to him of public interest, by persons generally considered truthful, which of course find their way into print. Frequently the writer has no time to investigate the subject, or anything connected with it, relying solely on the veracity and reputation of the one belonging the information, which persons do not reflect that the editor does not feel any bad result from the false report, but they should understand that the public at large is the sufferer. A very good way to put a stop to this kind of thing would be to publish the name of the party who furnishes false reports to a newspaper—thus putting the odium where it belongs. When the Millionaire arrives than every paragraph in the local department will be perfectly accurate

THE DUTCH HUMBERT.—We do not know which to blame the most, "Uncle Jimmy," or our informant, in stating to the reporter that the old man had lost $5,000 by burglars. City Marshal Hoyt says that upon investigating the matter he finds that the loss will not amount to over $50, and that he (lawyer) knows where most of the money is. It is rather strange that persons giving information to a newspaper do not regard truth of some importance. We know that informers do not always lie, intentionally, but they should say to the gatherer of news when on the story is a fact or a rumor.

TRUE RIDE.—In our notice of the entertainment at Odd Fellows Hall, yesterday, we stated that Richard Brinsley Sheridan was the author of "Sheridan's Ride to Winchester," which should have said T. Buchanan Read, an American writer of note. Of course the intelligent reader would understand that it meant Wm. Henry Hall Sheridan, who made himself so famous in the cavalry movement to the late war, and which would hardly have been described by one who has been so many years in the grave. For the benefit of the person of the Hill Ringers, Mr. Warwick recited the graphic description again last evening.

CIRCUIT COURT.—SHATTUCK, J.—Yesterday the jury brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree, in the case of Edward Mitchell. In Circuit Court Adams vs. Jane Adair and Jane Neely vs. Neely, decrees of divorce were granted

SUDDEN.—Yesterday evening was hot and sultry making fat people cross and thin ones happy. In the midst of a breeze sprang up from the northwest which was very refreshing to the "fevered brow."

REFRESHING.—The property holders and business people on Flat street have engaged the services of a street sprinkler, which contributes much to the comfort on that thoroughfare.

OUT.—What business place in town seems to be the centre of commerce and such attract? Ans. Wells, Fargo & Co.; because there you are pretty sure to see the burly cut "Briggs" and the most "Mills."

REPRIEVE.—The Willamette is falling rapidly which has had the effect to dry many basements and cellars that are below high water mark.

TREASURE.—The messenger of Wells, Fargo & Co. from the Dalles, brought down in specie to the amount of $30,000 last night.

NO STEAMER.—The Oriental was not telegraphed up to a late hour last night. She may be looked for this morning.

TELEGRAM.—A telegraphic dispatch may be found at the office for J. H. Robbins.

FROM IDAHO.

The following is from the Statesman of the 10th and 12th

THE INDIAN SITUATION

The subjoined is the letter of Capt Jennings to the citizens of Ruby City asking for assistance

"MAGGS, THOMASON, MEEKER AND OTHER FRIENDS: We are in a very critical condition. None, gentlemen, if you can believe us, in the name of God of ours. We shall in them to-night. The Indians have effectively succeeded in. Five of our men, shot to-day, whom we saw are in claim. We have before us men killed and two women. Mrs. Fisher was killed at the bedding a valley of Auron Wanders was shot in the neck. Mrs. Weil was received a flesh wound in the side. Two most of the men have been shot through the clothing. We have fought two hundred and fifty well mounted Indians for two days and one night. We cause but a meagre account of our ammunition left. Being Henry rifle cartridges and lead. We have two horses shot and several wounded. We have given up nothing to the Indians, but have captured two horses from them. If we had one hundred and fifty good men, we could walk through this country. Now, gentlemen, in the name of Heaven, send us assistance within thirty six hours—if possible. There are but thirty-two of us all told. We have killed and wounded at least 2 Indians. Send us out some horseshoes and nails. Unless you send the force requested, not one of us can escape. Mount the men at Flint."

A. H. French writes to John Cruikshank: "Tell the boys we are in a trap, and want their assistance immediately."

The Ruby City Avalanche says editorially: "We were awakened at two o'clock yesterday morning by the steamwhistle of the various mills, the ringing of bells, beating of drums and clanging of fire irons. Simultaneously with these alarums Capt. Hinton, of the Post at Flint District, and H. B. Johnson made their appearance, bearing the fearful intelligence that Jennings and party were surrounded by Indians on the hill, and had been for two days. That reinforcements could be at once afforded; they stated that every Ruby Silver and Bannock, and in one accord, sprang to arms, and by eight o'clock a number of hundred well armed and mounted men, with four or five days rations started to the relief of their unfortunate fellow citizens. Mr. D. Pelser, the messenger who brought the note from Capt Jennings, (published elsewhere) rode out from the town on the night of the 8th in company with another, and were intercepted by fifteen Indians on the way, but thereby obtained seven twelve hours—otherwise relief would ere this have reached the brave little band of soldier citizens."

By the stage that arrived from Ruby Sunday afternoon we learn that about one volunteers were mustered and left Flint District at about four o'clock Friday afternoon

The district Court adjourned for one week, and all hands started off with what arms they could get for warfare.

Just before the stage left Ruby on Sunday morning another messenger, Watson by name, arrived from the besieged party, bringing the welcome news that the Indians broke up their camp and left them early Friday morning. The message did not meet the volunteers, but crossed their trail beyond Flint. Captain Jennings says that in after the Indians left to bring recruits to follow the Indians and punish them, the own party being too much for that purpose. The reinforcements must have arrived on Sunday afternoon.

Colonel Coppinger left Fort Boise with a company of mounted infantry on Saturday to take the place of the men under Captains Hinton and White, who had gone with the volunteers after the main body of Indians, and left the settlements without protection.

The citizen volunteers numbered two hundred, who went to the relief of Captain Jennings. They would probably be under the command of Bill Beasley. On Sunday supplies to the value of $500, were also sent out, under an escort of about forty additional men. Gov. Ballard and Major Alvord returned on Wednesday and report considerable excitement yet at Ruby and Silver. A considerable number of women and children have taken up lodgings in the New York and Owyhee Mill for more perfect security.

A COW AND A MAN SHOT.

A soldier hanging about town half drunk yesterday afternoon tried several times to kick up a row. Just after one down he stepped up to the bar of the Bank Exchange, where several men stood taking a drink. He without being spoken to crowded in and said, "the would take whiskey," whereupon one of the men knocked him down. The soldier then managed to get his pistol out and fired it off, apparently without much idea of how he was shooting, but the ball took effect in the leg of Peter Riggs, making a flesh wound, though not serious. Officer Wyatt took the man in custody.

FREIGHT AND IMMIGRANTS COMING.

There is said to be a large amount of freight coming on the road from Uklon. There are also a large number of families on the way, and they are by this time within reach of those Indians that roam along and beyond the Owyhee. Mr. George H. Chick went over to Ruby yesterday to secure, if possible, some escort for them through the dangerous territory.

The subjoined items are from the Idaho Union:

ROBBERY AT PLACERVILLE

We understand that Mr. Loeb of Placerville, had the sum of $4,000 stolen from his cellar, where the money was secreted. Search was made for it after it was missing, and all that about $700. Loeb lives between two buildings covered with dirt and gunny-sacks. Mr. Loeb had received $400 of it in payment from the person supposed to have stolen the dust, before it was missed.

IDAHO CITY JAMMED FULL.

On Sunday morning last the streets of our city was jammed up with teams, freight wagons and pack animals, all discharging freight for this place. This don't look much as if this camp was played out. A few thousand of people can be rushed into the street at any time, on dusty seconds notice, by a cry of "fire" or "flight."

ROBBERY AT IDAHO CITY.

Sunday night a haul was made at the saloon on the corner of Wall and Montgomery streets, Idaho City, of the hundred dollars in gold dust. The robber made good his escape, taking the money with him. An officer is in pursuit.

The following items are from the World.

FROM ALTURAS.

A letter from Rocky Bar, says: The Waddingham Company, under the supervision of Mr. John A. Greene, are busy at work on the Confederate Star, and have a large quantity of rock now on hand which they will commence crushing on Monday next. The Idaho Company will also start its mill in a few days. The Benton & Harris mill and the Victor Company, situated on Red Warrior, commenced running yesterday, the former crushing from the Wide West, which is very rich. They have a large quantity of very rich ore from said ledge now in their mill, and have a six foot well defined ledge at a depth of 150 feet.

THE ESCAPED DEFAULTER, SLOCUM.

One thousand dollars reward is offered by Sheriff Crutcher for the apprehension and delivery of Alfred Slocum, who escaped from jail on the night of the 3rd of July. The Sheriff and deputies are all out in search of Slocum, and we have not been able to obtain a reliable account of the manner of the escape. There are circumstances connected with it which lead to the belief that Slocum was assisted by confederates on the outside. He was first missed by Mr. Tyson, one of the jailors, about 11 P. M.

A CHINAMAN KILLED.

A fracas occurred on Grimes' creek, below Hog'em, last week, resulting in the death of a Chinaman. We understand that a suit had been pending between Tom Wilson and the Chinaman about some mining ground, which was decided in favor of the Chinaman. The parties meeting on the claim soon after, a fracas occurred, a shovel was handled, and a Chinaman killed. Wilson was arrested and confined in the County Jail.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

The weather has been up in high latitudes of late—thermometer nearly every day during the week above 90°. A little snow is still visible in the East. The streams are all high. The Payette is almost impassable.

Some one entered the room in the rear of the Red Wing saloon, last Tuesday, and robbed a drawer in one of the tables of a purse of dust valued at $1,600. The purse had been accidentally left in the drawer but a few minutes previous. It belonged to A. J. Bailey, Henry Garfield and "Pronchy."

Mr. James Crow arrived here from the Blackfoot country on Wednesday, after several months' absence from Idaho. He says the man who will leave the Boise Basin for any such mining camp as the Blackfoot country, is a fool, that it is not one-half the mining camp that this Basin is. Mr. Crow ought to know, for he spent a winter there.

Mr. W. W. Chapman Jr., brought to Idaho City last Monday the result of the last clean up of the Elk Horn Mill, amounting to over $5,000. It made a very handsome brick.

Our friend, John Harris, arrived here the other day from Big Bend. He left Idaho City in May—says the latter there amount to nothing, and everybody was leaving.

MASONIC RESOLUTIONS.—The following preamble and resolutions were adopted at a meeting of Willamette Lodge No. 2, and ordered to be sent to the family of the late Mr. Tracy:

WHEREAS It has pleased the Almighty Creator and Lord of mankind, suddenly to summon away from earth in the prime of manhood, our esteemed brother, E. W. Tracy; and whereas, We feel, most deeply feel, the irreparable loss which we, as a lodge, and as individual Masons have sustained in the death of our brother; therefore,

Resolved, That while we bow in submission to the Divine decree, we sincerely deplore the sad dispensation of Providence by which we have been deprived of a beloved brother, whose personal virtues, generous and warm heart, and staunch zeal and fidelity greatly endeared him to our fraternity, and made him an upright citizen, unanimously respected in the community.

Resolved, That we cherish in unfading memory the excellences of his character, and while reminded by the departure that "in the midst of life we are in death" we more especially tonight that we should so live and act that when we are called to follow him, we may stand ready for the summons, and be welcomed to the holy place where divine light shall its constant radiance

Resolved, That in token of our grief, the jewels of this Lodge shall be draped in mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the bereaved family of our deceased brother, and while we feel that words can feebly relieve the sharpness of grief which the death of such a husband and father must cause, we respectfully tender to them the assurance of our sincere and fraternal sorrow in our common loss.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, signed by the Secretary, be sent to the family of our late brother.

The Legends of the Rhine

It [illegible] walls with ivy grown
Its [illegible] sights of ruined stone,
Turret, with its clanging flag,
Keep, feud [illegible] Crest,
Dungeon [illegible] And [illegible]
Looking down a precipice
Over the darkly glooming water
By the [illegible] knave
Soldier [illegible] and maiden's war—
Haunt of love, and crime, and Power,
That's the scenery in this
All the Legends of the Rhine

One told Baron Annihilerel—

And no one of the stories ran
Partner of the Evil One
Light [illegible] in white—
Evil [illegible]—
Writhing of her lily hands
Wild [illegible]
Abbot crabby, hermit pale,
Minstrel fraught with many a tale—
Are the actors that combine
In the Legends of the Rhine

Bell-mouthed flagons, round a board,
Stalwart farmer, shield and sword,
Encrusted with its bloody stain,
Ghosts of the unthinly slain,
Thunder clap and clanking chain
Bridesmaid's black and shining maze,
Thumbscrews, crucifixes racks,
Midnight tolling chapel bell,
Hearse across the gloomy fell—
Are the "properties" that shine
In the Legends of the Rhine

Maledictions, whispered vows,
Underneath the arching boughs,
Murder, Bigamy and Theft!
Travelers of goods bereft;
Rapine, Pillage, Arson, Spell—
Everything but honest toll—
Are the deeds that best define
Every Legend of the Rhine

That virtue always meets reward—
Ruk sooner when it wears a sword;
That Providence has special care
Of gallant Knight and Ladye fair;
That villains, as a thing of course,
Are always haunted by Remorse—
Is the moral, I opine
Of the Legends of the Rhine.

Uncle Ingot.

[From Chambers' Journal

"If ever you or yours gets five pounds out of me, madam, before I die, I promise you, you shall have five thousand, and I am a man of my word." So spake Mr Ingot Boardmore, dry-salter and common councilman of the city of London, to Dorothea Elizabeth, his widowed sister-in-law, who had applied to him for succor, about three months after the death of his younger brother Isaac, her husband. There were harshness and stubborn determination in his reply, but there was no niggard cruelty. Mrs. Isaac wanted money, it is true, but only in the sense in which we all want it. She was only poor in comparison with the great wealth of this relative by marriage. Her income was large enough for any ordinary—Mr. Ingot said "legitimate"—purpose, but not sufficient for sending her boy to Eton, and finishing off at the universities, as it was the maternal wish to do. Mr. Ingot hated such genteel intentions: Christ's Hospital had been a fashionable enough school for him, and he had "finished off" as a clerk at forty pounds a year in that very respectable house of which he was now the senior partner. With the results of that education, as exemplified in himself, he was perfectly satisfied, and if his nephews only turned out half as well, their mother, he thought, might think herself uncommonly lucky. Her family had given themselves airs upon the occasion of her marrying Isaac—"allying herself with commerce," some of them called it—and Ingot had never forgiven them. He gloried in his profession, although government had never seen fit to ennoble any member of it, and perhaps all the more upon that account; for he was one of those Radicals who are not "snobs" at heart, but rather aristocrats. He honestly believed that nobleman and gentlemen were the lower orders, and those who toiled and strove, the upper crust of the human pie. When he was told that the former classes often toiled and strove in their own way as much as the others, he made a gesture of contempt, and "blew" like an exasperated whale. It was a vulgar sort of retort, of course, but so eminently expressive, that his opponent rarely pursued the subject.

He rather liked his sister-in-law, in spite of her good birth, and would have, doubtless, largely assisted her had she consented to bring up her children according to his views; but since she preferred to take her own way, he withdrew himself more and more from her society, until they saw nothing at all of one another. He had no intention of leaving his money away from his brother's children; he had much too strong a sense of duty for that; and as for marriage, that was an idea that never entered his hard old head. He had not made a fool of himself by falling in love in middle age, as Isaac had done (in youth, be had not time for such follies,) and it was not likely that at sixty-five he should commit any such imprudence. So his nephews and nieces felt confident of being provided for in future. In the present, however, as time went on, and the education of both boys and girls grew more expensive, Mrs. Isaac's income became greatly straitened. Her own family very much applauded the expensive way in which she was bringing up her children, and especially her independence of spirit with relation to her tradesman brother-in-law, but they never assisted her with a penny. The young gentleman at Cambridge was therefore kept upon very short allowance; and the young ladies, whose beauty was something remarkable, affected white muslin, and wore no meretricious jewelry. Their pin-money was very limited, poor things, and they made their own clothes at home by the help of a sewing-machine. If Uncle Ingot could have seen them thus diligently employed, his heart would perhaps have softened towards them, but, as I said, they now never got that chance. Julia, the elder, had been but six years old when he had called at their highly-rented but diminutive habitation in Mayfield, and now she was eighteen, and had never seen him since. Although she had of course grown out of the old man's recollection, she remembered his features uncommonly well; and, indeed, nobody who had ever seen it was likely to forget it. His countenance was not so much human as ligneous; and his profile, Nephew Jack had actually seen upon a certain nobbly tree in the lime walk of Clare Hall at Cambridge—much more like than any silhouette ever cut out of black paper. They had laughed at the old gentleman in early days, and snapped their fingers at his churlishness, but it had become no laughing matter now.

That remark of Uncle Ingot's, "If ever you or yours get five pounds out of me, madam, before I die, I promise you, you shall have five thousand; and I am a man of my word," had become a very serious sentence, condemning all the family to, if not poverty, at least very urgent want. What it meant of course was, that he was resolutely determined to give them nothing. In vain the young ladies worked Uncle Ingot slippers and book-markers for his birthday, and sent to him their best wishes at Christmas in Rimpell's highly-scented envelopes; in vain Jack sent him a pound of the most excellent snuff that Bacon's emporium could furnish, at the beginning of every term. He always wrote back a civil letter of thanks, in a clear and clerkly letter, but there was never any enclosure. When Mrs. Isaac asked him to dinner, he declined in a caustic manner—avowing that he did not feel himself comfortable at the aristocratic tables of the West End—and sent her a plum apple for the dessert, of his own growing. He had really no illfeeling towards his relatives, although he kept himself so estranged; but I think this sort of conduct took off the old gentleman's grim sense of humor. If he could have found some legitimate excuse for "making it up" with his sister-in-law, within the first year or two of their falling out, perhaps he would have been glad to do so, but time had now so widened the breach that it was not to be easily repaired. What he had satirically written when he declined her invitation, had grown to be true; he rarely went into society, and almost never into the company of ladies, the older portion of whom he considered frivolous and vexatious, and the younger positively dangerous. He had a few old bachelor friends, however, with whom he kept up a cordial intercourse, and spent with them various festivals of the year as regularly as they came round.

On the 31st of December, for instance, he never omitted to go down to Reading, and "see the old year out, and the new year in," in the company of Tom Whaffles, with whom he had worn the yellow stockings in those school days that had passed away more than half a century ago. Tom and Isaac had been even greater cronies as boys than Tom and Ingot, but the latter did not like Tom the less upon that account, recently, I think, he esteemed him the more highly as a link between himself and that luckless family whose very existence he yet chose to ignore. Mr. Whaffles had intimate relations with them still, they came down to stay with him whenever his sister paid him a visit, and could act as their hostess, but this never happened in the last week of the year. Tom was never to speak of them to his old friend—that was not only tacitly understood, but had even been laid down in writing, as the basis of their intimacy.

On the 31st of December last, Mr. Ingot Boardmore found himself, as usual, at the Paddington Station, looking for an empty compartment, for his own company had got to be very pleasing to him. Having attained his object, and rolled himself up in the corner of the carriage in several great-coats, with his feet upon a hot tin, and his hands clothed in thick mittens, and altogether like a polar bear who liked to make himself comfortable—when everything was arranged, I say to the old gentleman's complete satisfaction, who should invade his privacy, just as the train was about to start, and the whistle was sounded, but one of the most bewitching young ladies you ever set your eyes on!

"Madam, this carriage is engaged," growled he, pointing to the umbrella, carpet bags and books, which he had distributed upon all the seats, in order to give it that appearance.

"Only engaged to you, I thank, sir," replied the charmer flippantly. "Happy carriage! I wish I was. Isn't that pretty?"

Mr Boardmore had never had anything half so shocking said to him in all his life, and if the train had not already set in motion, he would have called upon the guard for help, and left the carriage forthwith. As it was, he could only look at this shameless young person with an expression of the severest reprobation. At the same time, his heart sank within him at the reflection, that the train was not to stop till he reached his destination—Reading. What landing-waiter might he not have to suffer before he could obtain protection? She was a modest looking young lady, too, very simply dressed, and her voice was particularly sweet and prepossessing, notwithstanding the very dreadful remarks in which she had indulged. Perhaps she was out of her mind—and at this idea Mr. Ingot Beard more's brow broke out, notwithstanding the low temperature, into a very profuse perspiration.

"Now, what will you give me for a kiss, you old—you old polar bear?" asked the fair stranger playfully, as the train flew by Ealing.

"Nothing, madam, nothing, I am astonished at you," answered Mr. Boardmore, looking anxiously round the carriage in the desperate hope of finding one of those newly patented inventions for affording communications with the guard.

"Well, then, I'll take one, and leave it to your honor," continued the young lady, with a peal of silver laughter, and with that she lightly rose, and before the old gentleman could free himself from his wraps, or ward her off with his umbrella, she imprinted a kiss upon his horny cheek. Mr Boardmore's breath was so utterly taken away by this assault, that he remained speechless, but his countenance was probably more full of expression than it had ever been in his life. "Oh, no, I am not mad," laughed she in reply to it, "although I have taken a fancy to such a wonderful old creature." Now, come, if I kiss you again, what will you give me?"

"I shall give you in charge of the police, madam, the instant that I arrive at Reading."

"Give me in charge! What for, you curious piece of antiquity?"

"For assault, madam; yes, for an insult. Don't you know that you have no right to kiss people without their consent in this manner?"

Here the young lady laughed so violently that the tears came into her eyes.

"Do you suppose, you poor old doting creature, that anybody will ever believe such a story as that? Do you ever use such a thing as a looking glass, you poor dear? Are you aware how very unprepossessing your appearance is, even when you don't frown,—as you are doing now in a manner that is enough to frighten one? You have, of course, a perfect right to your own opinion, but if you suppose the police will agree with you, you will find yourself much mistaken. The idea of anybody wanting to kiss you will reasonably enough appear to them preposterous."

"What is it you require of me, you wicked creature?" cried the old bachelor, in an agony of shame and rage.

"I want payment for my kiss. To a gentleman at your time of life, who scarcely could expect to be so favored, surely it is worth—what shall I say?—five pounds. What! not so much! Well, then, here's another for your other cheek!" Like a flash of lightning, she suited the action to the words. "There, then, five pounds for two, and I won't take a shilling less. You will have to give it to the poor's-box at the police station, if not to me. For I intend, in case you are obstinate, to complain of your disgraceful conduct to the guard at the first opportunity. I shall give you into custody, sir, as sure as you are alive. You will be put upon your oath, you know, and all that you will dare to say will be that I kissed you, and not you me. What roars of laughter there will be in court, and how funny it will all look in the papers!" Here the young lady began to laugh again, as though she had already read it there. Mr. Boardmore's grim sense of humor was, as usual, accompanied by a keen dislike of appearing ridiculous. True, he hated to be imposed upon; still, of the two evils, was it not better to pay five pounds than to be made the laughing-stock of his bachelor friends, who are not the sort of people to commiserate one in a misfortune of this kind?

In short, Mr Ingot Beardmore paid the money. Mr. Thomas Whaffles found his guest that evening anything but talkative? There was a select party of the male sex invited to meet him, by whom the rich old drysalter was accustomed to be regarded as an oracle; but upon this occasion he had nothing to say; the consciousness of having been "done" oppressed him. His lips were tightly sealed; his cheeks were still glowing from the audacious insult that had been put upon them; his fingers clutched the pocket-book in which there was a five pound note less than there ought to be. But when his host and himself were left alone that night, "seeing the old year out, and the new year in," his heart began to thaw under the genial influences of friendship and gin-punch, and he told his late adventure to Tom Whaffles, not without much enjoyment of his own mischance.

"I could really almost forgive the jade," said he, "for having taken me in so cleverly. I dare say, however, she makes quite a profession of it; and that half a score of old gentlemen have been coerced before now into ransoming their good name as I did. And yet she was as modest and ladylike looking a girl as ever you saw."

"Was she anything like this?" inquired Mr. Whaffles, producing a photograph.

"Why, that's very girl!" exclaimed the guest.

"Ha, ha! Tom, so you, too, have been one of her victims, have you? Well, now, this is most extraordinary."

"Not at all, my dear fellow. I know her well, and her sister, and her mother, and her brother, too. I can introduce you to her if you like. There's not the least harm in her, bless you, she only kissed you for a bit of fun."

"A bit of fun!" cried Mr. Boardmore; "why she got a five-pound note out of me!"

"But she does not mean to keep it, I am very sure. Would you like to see her again? Come, 'Yes' or 'No?'"

"If she will give me back my money, 'Yes.'"

"Very well," returned the host, "mind, you asked for her yourself," and he rang the bell pretty sharply twice.

"Here she is: it's your niece, Miss Julia. Her mother and sister are now staying under this very roof."

"Yes, uncle," said the young lady, demurely. "Here is your five pound note: please to give me that five thousand that you promised mamma if ever she or here got five pounds out of you, for you are a man of your word, I know. But what would be better still would be, to let me kiss you once more, in the character of your dutiful niece, and let us all love you as we want to do. It was an audacious stratagem, I admit, but I think you will forgive me—come."

"There goes the church bell?" cried Tom Whaffles; "It is the New Year, and a fitting time to forget old enmities. Give your uncle a kiss, child."

Uncle Ingot made no resistance this time, but avowed himself fairly conquered; and between ourselves, although he made "favorites" among newly reconciled relatives, but treated them with equal kindness, I think he always liked Niece Julia best, who had been the cause of healing a quarrel which no one perhaps had regretted more at heart than Uncle Ingot himself.

RIGHTS IN CONGRESS.—A Washington dispatch of June 15th reads as follows:

Yesterday the House was regaled with a specimen of secessionism by Harris of Maryland. It was no mealy-mouthed, treacherous subterfuge. It was bold, blatant rebellion. He deprecated the execution of Mrs. Surratt; spoke even in ironical terms of the killing of Booth. Speaking of the rebels, he said:

"If they have lowered the standard of the Confederacy, they have not lowered the standard of their pride. * * * It will not diminish his tone that he can on his own soil walk over the graves of nearly three hundred thousand of his courageous enemies, and

"Standing on the Yankee grave
He will not deem himself a slave."

That a speech in such a tone should have been listened to in Congress is indicative of the times. Is a specimen of what we would get in abundance if we resubmitted the rebels to political power while they are as badly "reconstructed" as Harris. It means that secessionism, being unable to fight in the field would like to fight in the Senate. It means, in short, that devotion to the Union is not a very prominent element of power with those gentry. The power to govern these United States was won by the sword and transferred to the senate for adjustment. Let every really loyal element be encouraged, but we have had quite enough of that sort of treason.

Jenkins thus describes the lingerings of a New York belle: "She wore an exquisitely hyphalutin on her head, while her train was composed of transparent fol de rol, and her petticoat of Grammanbuli flounced with Brussels three ply of A No. 1.

CLOCK WORK OF THE BRAIN.—Our brains are seventy hour clocks. The angel winds them up once for all: then closes the case and gives the key into the hands of the angel of the resurrection. Time-lue tac! go the wheels of thought; our will cannot stop them; they can not stop themselves; sleep cannot stop them; madness only makes them go faster; death alone can break into the case, and seizing the ever moving pendulum, which we call the heart, silence at last the clicking of the terrible escapement we have carried so long beneath our aching foreheads. If we could only get at them, as we lie upon our pillows, and count the dead beats of thought after thought, and image after image, jarring through the overwound organ! Will nobody block these wheels, unscrupulous their pinions, cut the springs that hold these weights! What a passion comes over us sometimes for quiet and rest! that this dreadful mechanism, unwinding the endless tapestry of time, embroidered with spectral figures of life and death, could have but one brief holiday.

TELEGRAPH CONSOLIDATION.—The progress of telegraphing in the United States is by gigantic strides. The American and Western Union Telegraph Companies are about concluding an agreement of union which amounts to a consolidation of interests. The public demand for prompt and uninterrupted transmission of messages renders it indispensable to get rid of all delays in checking and booking from one line to another. The new consolidation will control and operate over 100,000 miles of telegraph wire, covering all the territory, and connecting all points of importance from Newfoundland to San Francisco and Vancouver Island, from the latter point 11,000 miles to St. Petersburg will be done within a year. Cuba and the West Indies will be connected, and the success of the Atlantic Cable in August next is confidently hoped for.

INDICTMENT OF GEORGE M. GAYLE.—The United States District Court Grand Jury for the Southern District of Alabama, Judge Busteed's district, has found a bill of indictment against George M. Gayle, on the joint charge of murder and conspiracy to overthrow the United States Government. Gayle has been arrested and held to answer in the sum of $15,000. He will be remembered as the man who advertised in the Selma papers for contributions to fund of $1,000,000 to procure the assassination of Mr Lincoln and who was brought to Washington under arrest last summer, but finally released and allowed to return.
